CHILD BENEFIT · 2026/27

£27.05 a week for the first child. But it has to be claimed.

For a child under 16 — or under 20 if they stay in approved education or training — there is a fixed weekly payment. It never starts on its own.

HOW MUCH, HOW OFTEN

£17.90

£27.05 a week for the eldest or only child and £17.90 for each additional child, in the 2026 to 2027 tax year. Usually paid every four weeks.

> Only one person can claim for a child. With a child under 12, claiming also gives you National Insurance credits towards the State Pension.

WHO DOES NOT KEEP ALL OF IT

£60,000

If you or your partner earns over £60,000, part of it goes back. Over £80,000, all of it. It looks at one person's income, not the household's.

> Even then it is worth claiming without the payments: you keep the pension credits and pay nothing back.

CHILD BENEFIT · 2026/27

Not sure if you have to pay it back?

Message us and we will look at your income for the tax year and what it means for Child Benefit. No obligation.

0330 133 1886

General information. For your own situation, speak to an accountant.