TRADING ALLOWANCE · £1,000

Earning a bit on the side? The first £1,000 goes unreported.

If you sell online, do repairs, deliver or hire out your own tools alongside a job, the first £1,000 a year is tax free and you do not have to tell HMRC.

WHAT COUNTS

£1,000

It counts what came in, not what you kept. If the tax-year total passes £1,000, you must register for Self Assessment by 5 October in the following tax year.

> Wages do not count towards it. The £1,000 is only the money from working for yourself.

WHO CANNOT USE IT

0

You cannot use the allowance on money from your own employer, from your partner's employer, or from a company you or a connected person owns or controls.

> Nor on your share of a partnership's profit. And even under £1,000 it can pay to file — for Maternity Allowance or voluntary contributions.

TRADING ALLOWANCE · £1,000

Gone past £1,000?

Message us and we will add up what came in across the tax year and tell you plainly whether you have to declare it. No obligation.

0330 133 1886

General information. For your own situation, speak to an accountant.