EXPENSES · WORKING FROM HOME

Work done at home comes off your profit, from £10 a month.

Self-employed and doing the work at home? The flat rate stands in for the everyday running costs of the home — electricity, gas, water — so you do not split the bills between work and home.

THE AMOUNT, BY HOURS A MONTH

£26

25 to 50 hours in a month → £10. 51 to 100 hours → £18. 101 hours or more → £26.

> Example: 60 hours a month at home, all year — 12 × £18 = £216 off your profit. You keep a record of the hours, not of the bills.

WHO CANNOT USE THE FLAT RATE

25h

Under 25 hours of work at home in a month, the flat rate is not available for that month. And limited companies cannot use it, nor a partnership with a company as a partner.

> The flat rate covers the home's running costs — not telephone or internet. Those you claim separately, at the business share of the bill.

EXPENSES · WORKING FROM HOME

Not sure what you can claim from home?

Message us and we will go through your expenses before the return goes in. No obligation.

0330 133 1886

General information. For your own situation, speak to an accountant.