LETTING · RENT A ROOM

A lodger in your own home? The first £7,500 a year is tax free.

The relief is called Rent a Room. You do not claim it and you fill nothing in: take less than £7,500 in a year and it applies automatically.

IT COUNTS WHAT COMES IN

£7,500

Not what you keep. Everything you receive: the rent, plus anything you charge for meals, cleaning or laundry.

> Over £7,500 you file a return and choose: pay on your actual profit with expenses deducted, or on your receipts above £7,500 with no expenses at all.

WHO DOES NOT GET £7,500

£3,750

If anyone else also receives letting income from the same home — usually a partner, where the house is in both names — you get £3,750 each. It does not add up to £15,000.

> It does not apply at all to: an unfurnished room, a house split into separate flats, a room let as an office or for storage, or a UK home let while you live abroad.

LETTING · RENT A ROOM

Not sure the relief covers you?

Message us and we will go through what you took and what has to be filed. No obligation.

0330 133 1886

General information. For your own situation, speak to an accountant.